Our work

As a leading practice offering advice to high net worth individuals, we have a strong track record in advising private clients on tax planning for individuals, trustees and estates, including the mitigation of inheritance and capital gains tax.

We deal with all aspects of the creation and administration of UK and offshore trusts and charities, looking after day to day administration, taxation matters and disputes.

Much of our work has an international flavour where we are able to tailor our advice to give our clients the optimum structure for their circumstances.

We have significant expertise in dealing with the administration of estates of deceased Lloyd's names. Colin Russell acted for the executors of the estate of the late Richard Yorke QC in the widely reported test case, re Yorke. Administering an estate of a Lloyd's deceased name involves complex legal issues concerning distribution and we have extensive experience of advising on such matters.

With close ties to the commercial, corporate and family law teams in Manches, we are ideally placed to provide bespoke solutions for all your tax, inheritance and estate management issues.

The team

Colin Russell, Head of Manches' Private Client Team in London, is recognised as a leading practitioner in his field. He has over 30 years experience of private client practice.

Colin is supported by an exceptional legal team, all of whom are active members of STEP (Society of Trust & Estate Practitioners).

Manches is a leading commercial and private client law firm
