A Technology & Intellectual Property team providing judgement through experience.

Our expertise

Our team represents public and private companies, groups of companies, owner-managed businesses, institutions, start-up companies, as well as sole traders and individuals. We provide the breadth and depth of experience to provide a legal service that provides judgement backed by experience.

The team combines lawyers with contentious and non-contentious experience to provide strategic advice that is relevant, pro-active and commercially practical.

Our approach

Manches is committed to building long term relationships with its clients. We adopt a front-line, industry perspective, to ensure our clients' commercial objectives are paramount.

We aim to understand our clients' objectives and support those objectives through first class legal advice, support and experience.

Manches' Technology & Intellectual Property team works closely with other practice areas in the firm, to provide an integrated service to clients.

Our team

Our team of Technology & Intellectual Property specialists is a fully integrated cost effective service comprising partners, senior and junior solicitors and trainee solicitors.
